

Contents

Editorial Statement — V

Preface and Acknowledgements — VII

Contributors — XIII

Part 1: The Death of the Roman Republic – Concepts

Christopher J. Dart, David Rafferty, Frederik Juliaan Vervae

New Perspectives on Old Problems/Old Perspectives on New Problems — 3

Matt Simonton

How Did Ancient Greek Democracies Die? Not (Normally) by Demagoguery — 25

Amy Russell

Consensus Breakdown: Or, How Cicero Was Wrong About Rome, and We Might Be Wrong About America — 39

Part 2: The Death of the Roman Republic – Causation

Frederik Juliaan Vervae, Christopher J. Dart and David Rafferty

Reform Unwillingness and the Death of the Roman Republic — 71

James Tan

The Role of the Economy in the Fall of the Roman Republic — 123

Tom Hillard and J. Lea Beness

Alternative Visions and Fractured Allegiances: The Role of Disillusion, Alienation and Disengagement in the Late Roman Republic — 151

Kit Morrell

Enabling Laws, Rule of Law, and the Transformation of the Roman Republic — 195

Tim Elliott

Dominari illi volunt, vos liberi esse* – Populist Reason and Rhetoric in Sallust — 227

Part 3: The Death of the Roman Republic – Effect

Nicholas George

The View from the Periphery: Local Elites, Roman Elites, and the Western Provinces during Rome's Crisis of the 80s BCE — 249

Christian Hjorth Bagger

In the Wake of Autocrats: The Plight of Matronae in the Late Republic — 269

Jeff Tatum

Just Another Word? The Lure of Libertas in the Seventies — 289

David Rafferty, Frederik Juliaan Vervaeke and Christopher J. Dart

Competitive Authoritarianism on the Eve of Empire: Pompeius's New Republic of 52 BCE — 307

Thibaud Lanfranchi

Caesar and the Tribunes of the Plebs: Process and Events — 331

Tonya Rushmer

Who Counts as the Roman People? Caesar's recensus and Discriminatory Populism — 363

Part 4: From the End of the Roman Republic to the Modern World

Ronald T. Ridley

Augustus' Res Gestae as a Revolutionary's Manual — 389

Catherine Kovesi

With a Bang or a Whimper? Reflections on the Fall of the Venetian Republic — 409

Peter McPhee

A New Catilina or a New Cromwell? Napoleon Bonaparte and the Death of the First French Republic, 1794–1804 — 423

Part 5: The Roman Republic and the Modern World

Annelien de Dijn

From Caesarism to Populism: An Intellectual History — 441

Cristina Rosillo-López

Dealing with Uncertainty: Cicero, Victor Klemperer and How to Cope with the Present in Moments of Crisis — 457

Francisco Pina Polo

The Civil War in Spain (1936–1939) and the Civil Wars in Late-republican Rome as Cases of Political and Ideological Polarisation — 475

Ángel Alcalde

The Death of Democratic Republics in the 1930s: Germany, Austria, Spain — 493

Lisa Hill

How Republics Die: The Corrosive Effects of Election ‘Conspiracism’ — 511

Federica Carugati

Afterword: Lessons from the Graveyard — 529

Index — 535